* 3M™ Trizact™ Diamond HX Discs are 3M's recommended choice, but 3M™ Scotch-Brite™ Surface Preparation Floor Pad can be used as an alternative.

<sup>1</sup> Vinyl flooring (also known as VCT or PVC) is used primarily in commercial and institutional applications – particularly high traffic areas – because of its low cost, durability and ease of maintenance. Resilient to abrasion and impact damage, vinyl flooring can be repeatedly refinished with mechanical buffing equipment.

<sup>2</sup> Linoleum flooring (also known as Lino) is considered non-allergenic and is still used, particularly in hospitals and health care facilities. It is flexible and extremely durable, and is used where a more rigid material, such as ceramic tile, would crack. As a floor covering Linoleum has been largely replaced by Vinyl flooring.
